I want to select all rows, and order them based on the value of 'grp'. For example, say the grp value was a date, and I want to order all rows so that the earliest date would be selected. I can see that this can be done with a sort using ORDER BY grp DESC However, this will return all the rows with the same value of grp. What I need is: if grp = 'somevalue', order the row so that when the grp is sorted ASC, it is first, else if grp is DESC, return a row with the same grp as the first row, but DESC. EDIT: SELECT id, title FROM car (NOLOCK) WHERE location = 'London' AND pcp = 'somevalue'
